

Pointillism

Pointillism is a technique in painting where tiny dots of pure colour are applied to a canvas. The patterns that form with the tiny dots build up to create an image. The colours appear to blend because they are dotted so close together, but paint is never actually blended before applying it like painters usually do.

Look closely at this picture, created using the Pointillism technique.

Create your own work of art using the same style.

Do some research to discover the names of artists who used this technique.

1 Learning Stamp